ATTACKS SMOOT.

Mormon President Flays the Senator Before Apostles.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 11.—Reed Smoot's experience during a hot meeting of the Mormon apostles, which President Joseph F. Smith called in the Salt Lake temple Thursday, is the engrossing topic in Mormon political circles.

Meetings of the Mormon priesthood are invariably secret in character, but the extraordinary developments of the last few days have resulted in leakages sufficient to show that Smoot was the subject that turned the meeting of the Apostles quorum into an indignation meeting.

President Joseph F. Smith had already expressed his disapproval of Smoot's conduct in dragging the Mormon relief society into politics by an official announcement of the Mormon president, published in the church paper on the eve of election. The attitude of the church president encouraged other leaders of the church to attack the senator, who was a storm centre at the meeting, according to reliable reports that reached the outside.

President Smith is said to have openly attacked Smoot for the latter's course during the Salt Lake City campaign, charging Smoot with having placed his church on the defensive with relation to its own members as well as with the outside world. Smith is said to have said that Smoot's political manipulations had brought more disgrace upon the church than anything that had taken place for many years.

Smoot, according to report, replied by saying that Smith's testimony in the Smoot investigation in Washington and his life of open polygamy had aroused more feeling against the church than anything else.

Many church leaders who have been dragged into the limelight in their great discomfort as a result of Smoot's political ambitions, joined in the denunciation of the senator. Mormons are a unit in blaming Smoot for the Gentile victory.

The Mexicans.

"The people have a mistaken idea about the natives of Mexico," said William E. Ryder of Oskosh, at the Blatz.

"They regard them as dirty, lazy and thieving. That is true of the northern Mexican granger, but it is not true of the southern Mexican, who is properly an Aztec Indian. He is honest, industrious and imitative. Where five years ago he was wearing a breech cloth, today he is wearing an ill-fitting and uncomfortable white shirt and shoes, because the white man does so. This erroneous idea is due to the fact that only 3 per cent of the Americans who visit Mexico go below the City of Mexico. The steamboats on the Coatzacoalcas and Tula rivers are officered by Aztecs."

"I was for many years the agent of Mexican lands. There are between 300 and 400 Mexican plantation companies in the United States, seventy-five of them in Chicago. Some of these are purely fake concerns, selling their stock without any idea of planting anything. One Chicago concern that I know of has sold all of its stock and has never seen its land. Rubber trees cannot be planted fast enough to replace one-eighth of the wild trees that are cut down. A rubber tree that is tapped will yield fifteen pounds of rubber. One that is cut down will yield forty pounds. Thinking only of today, the Brazilian natives are cutting down their trees and penetrating further and further up the Amazon. Rubber has to be brought on carriers' backs from 500 miles up that stream."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

A Successful Shot.

An amateur sportsman who lives in West Philadelphia and is employed in the Post Office, went out to shoot rabbits for the first time in his life upon the opening of the season, the day before yesterday. He told a story yesterday which, though it sounds fishy, he substantiated by producing the body of a rabbit without a scratch on it. It appears that the amateur was so excited after he missed the first rabbit he saw that he forgot to put a new shell in his shotgun, so that when rabbit No. 2 appeared, sitting on its haunches a few yards away, he raised his gun and snapped the trigger. No report followed, but he was greatly surprised to see the bunny jump a few yards in the air and then stretch his length on the ground, dead. When telling the story to his friends he attributes the rabbit's death to fright at seeing such a good shot aiming at him.—Philadelphia Record.

BROOKLINE 200 YEARS OLD.

Wealthiest Town in the World Observes Anniversary.

Brookline, Mass., Nov. 11.—The observance of the 200th anniversary of the incorporation of Brookline, which has long held the name of being the wealthiest town in the world, was opened yesterday, and will continue through Monday. Many former residents have returned to participate in the exercises.

A general committee of more than 100 members is in charge of the celebration, with Capt. Rufus G. F. Candage as chairman.

The opening of the observance took the form of a public meeting in the town hall, at which an oration was delivered by United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

The celebration will include fireworks this evening, the dedication of a memorial tablet today by the Sons of the American Revolution, a music festival, commemorative services in all the churches on Sunday, and a banquet in the town hall Monday evening.

CANADA'S TRADE GOOD.

The Tariff Commission Hears Reports at Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—There was no morning session of the tariff commission yesterday morning because Thursday night the commissioners were in Ottawa by command at the state banquet in honor of the king's birthday.

It is significant of the present inquiry that only two industries, the woolen and cotton, up to now have pleaded that ruin is confronting them. Another remarkable fact about the Montreal sittings is that quite a number of manufacturers who have appeared before the commission to ask for technical amendments in the tariff or for free raw materials have expressed themselves satisfied with the protection now afforded them. Even before a tariff commission it is being freely conceded that these are growing times in Canada.

HUMAN STONE QUARRY.

4,000 Pieces of Stone Taken from Explosion Victim.

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 11.—John Janski of this city, aged twenty-two, is a human stone quarry. Fourteen months ago he was the victim of an explosion in a stone quarry, and ever since then the doctors have been prospecting, every time with good results.

Four thousand pieces of stone have been removed from various parts of Janski's anatomy. A piece of granite weighing an ounce came out of his arm in an operation Thursday, and another of half an ounce weight was removed from the socket of his eye, which was lost in the explosion.

Four times a week Janski, without taking any anesthetic, submits to the knife.

WEST WILL MAKE TARIFF

It Cannot Be Dictated By Massachusetts.

FREE HYDES RIDICULED

The Protective System Is Not Seriously
Challenged—Nothing to Be Said
Against on the Score of Income.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Massachusetts Republicans in public life here are not a little discouraged over the party outlook at home. It is not so much the dwindling Republican pluralities which resemble the tendency of the latter eighties, when their gradual shrinkage finally culminated in three Russell victories, significant as this may be, as in the state of mind now noticeable on the part of Massachusetts voters, they are, in plain English, asking for tariff changes which they are not likely to get. It is a common prediction here that the Republican party would be in better shape in Massachusetts next year if Congress makes no revision of the tariff than if this great task is accomplished and a new law written into the statute books.

Notwithstanding the revision of the tariff can be secured, nor any Massachusetts scheme of reciprocity with Canada or any other country. The seat of political power in this country has moved west, and the Mississippi Valley and the Rocky Mountains will write the new tariff act, when one is written; Massachusetts will have to make the best of it industrially, and her voters will have to accept such a tariff as the Republican party gives them, rather than such as they would make themselves.

It is hardly to much to say that the Massachusetts demand for free hides is ridiculed by the protectionists of other sections, aside from the special industries affected unfavorably by it in Milwaukee and elsewhere. The Washington Post, which is reasonably cosmopolitan, took up the other day a point raised against the duty on hides by Senator Lodge, that it yielded so small an amount of revenue as to be not worth while. The Post showed a half-score of veritable keystones of the protective arcade which are yielding still less on the score of its income there is nothing to be said logically against the existing duty. Senator Warren of Wyoming once told the writer that the discussion of free hides made him too weary for utterance; that if Massachusetts with her numerous schedules on manufactured articles, was willing to deprive Wyoming of her little advantage in wool and hides, he should favor throwing the whole protective system overboard. The Iowa tariff revisionists, who started the now famous "Iowa idea," are exceedingly shy on free hides.
